July 10th, 1913.

The Northwestern Mutual Life Insurance Co.,
Milwaukee, Wis.

Gentlemen:-

Yours of the 27th of June was duly received and contents noted.

You did not acknowledge the receipt of the $54 I sent you to pay the years interest, but presume you received the same.

My method of dividing up the amount due on my policy between my wife and grand daughter, is not known to the beneficiaries, nor do I care to have it known. This is a matter that I desire to be left until my death between myself and the company only. Thus my desire to let the loan remain in its present shape.

If a new note signed by myself is thought advisable, I can execute the same and send you, though from a legal or business stand point I do not see any necessity therefor.

Please advise me if you wish to carry the loan longer on the terms you have been carrying it, as outlined above.

Very truly your